Greetings from the Public Inquiries Team,

On behalf of the Secretary-General, thank you very much for sharing your ideas on how to achieve world peace. The contents of your messages have been read and duly noted.

We hope you will understand that while the Secretary-General appreciates your interests in writing to him, his many official duties prevent him from thanking you with a personal letter. The Secretary-General continues to devote himself to the goal of world peace, and is always grateful for the support he receives from students.

The Secretary-General believes that young people and their organisations make an important contribution to strengthening international cooperation, and that the United Nations can draw on the energy and idealism of youth. We value the contributions that young people make by supporting United Nations aims and ideals.

We appreciate your interest in the United Nations and encourage you to continue pursuing your aspirations for world peace in your lifetime.

Best regards,
Public Inquiries Unit
